U.S. MAY JOIN IN SANCTIONS ON JAPAN

Official Announcement Of Indo-China Venture Is Slated For Tuesday

SAIGON, French Indo-China, (UP)—Official announcement of the French-Japanese agreement for Japanese occupation of French Indo-China will be made on Tuesday, it was reported in reliable quarters today. The agreement, it was said, will be announced simultaneously in Tokyo, Vichy and Indo-China.

F. R. Sees Peril
HYDE PARK, N. Y., (UP)—President Roosevelt said today that Japan's move into French Indo-China is awakening America to full realization of the deadly peril of the international situation. He indicated that America's first move to encounter Japan's imperial expansion in the Far East may be expected tomorrow.

It appeared almost certain that the initial move would be an executive order, freezing Japanese credits in this country. The order probably will be announced in Washington.

Economic Action Seen
WASHINGTON, (UP)—Simultaneous action against Japan by the United States, Great Britain and possibly Australia was expected today to be the first counter move of the democracies to Japanese aggression in Indo-China.

Such a move would mark the beginning of the end of a two-year experiment in appeasing the Japanese.

There was speculation that the United States would freeze Japanese assets in this country and Japan apparently feared that her ships might be seized, as well.

There were indications of an urgent desire to step-up the flow of aid to China and the Soviet Union, both of which would be important factors in anti-Japanese developments.

Ships Hove To
SAN FRANCISCO, (UP)—At least 40 Japanese ships bound for Pacific coast ports today were believed to have hove to at sea, fearing possible retaliation from the United States for Japan's move into Indo-China.

Business Good, Review Shows

General Index Up 20 Pct. Over Figure For Year Before, Summary Notes

Local officers of Bank of America report that during June, western and California business volume rose to unprecedented heights.

Quoting from the bank's Business Review for the month, they reveal that "Western industry produced as never before; employment and payrolls were again at record heights as were retail sales; most lines of business prospered."

The review noted that in May, 44,843 automobiles were sold in California, and that "even in well rubber-tired southern California, 99,119 were sold in the first five months of the year, which is 2,809 more than were sold in all 1938."

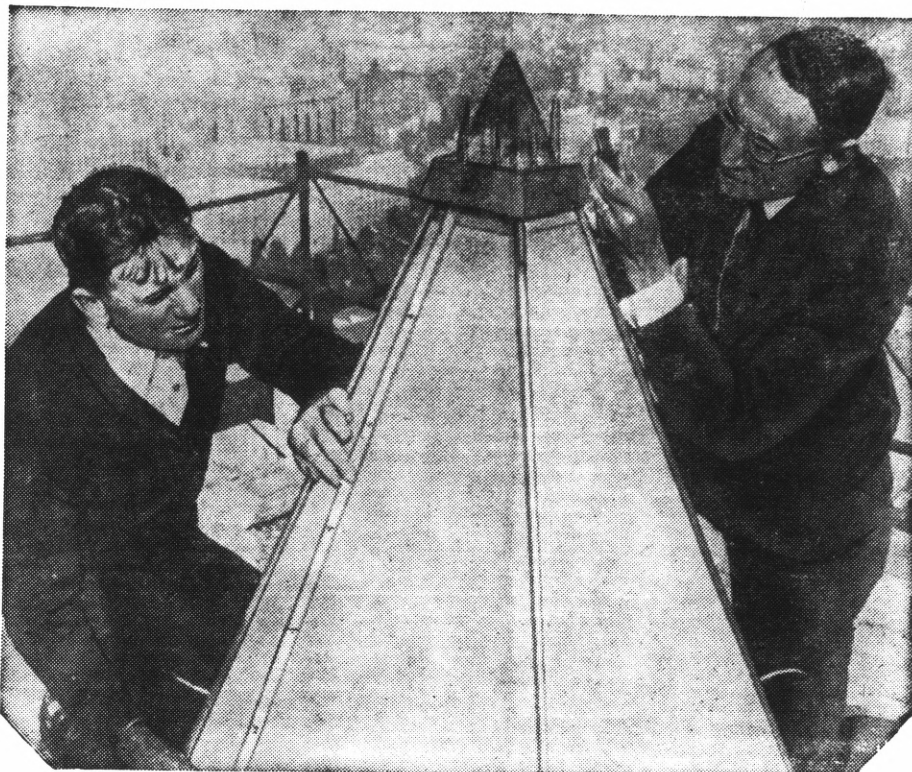

Commercial bank loans, described as "a valid criterion of business enthusiasm," were shown to have increased by $18,000,000 in even seven major Pacific coast cities in the month ended July 9. Of this, 94 per cent found its way into business channels. The already high level of real estate loans remained unchanged.

June demand for new home construction continued unabated in spite of rising building costs, and the residential building index rose 23 points above June of last year. Non-residential building was well maintained also.

As a result of this increased activity in nearly every line, Bank of America's index of general business rose to 130 about 20 per cent higher than it was a year ago.

Washington Monument Aids Defense

Workers are shown atop the Washington Monument, whose aluminum cap is slated to be sacrificed for national defense in the nationwide aluminum drive. The cap will be officially donated by Secretary Ickes. It contains 100 ounces of aluminum, a quantity that could be extracted from a dozen saucepans.

WPA SUMMARIZES WORK DONE IN COUNTY IN FIVE YEARS

Sixty-Five Miles Of Road And More Than Forty Public Buildings Built Or Improved During Period

SAN FRANCISCO—More than 40 public buildings and 65 miles of roads and streets were built or improved in El Dorado County by WPA workers in five and a half years, Northern California Work Projects Administrator William R. Lawson revealed here today in his report just sent to Washington.

The period, Lawson said, covers the time between the start of the Federal work program in July, 1935, and to including December 31, 1940.

"This summary of WPA work is a record of physical contributions to community wealth in many fields of public works," he explained. "The accomplishments included construction, improvement, addition of extensions to eight schools; 10 recreational, storage, office and administrative buildings; eight dormitories; two garages; a 200-foot steel bridge; 46 culverts; road drainage ditch and pipe; sidewalk and paths; a grandstand; four school playgrounds; a park; an athletic field; three diversion dams; and over 100 miles of firebreaks and fire and forest trails."

In the provision of outdoor recreational facilities for the benefit of young and old alike a new grandstand seating 2,600 people was built as a part of the project for the improvement of the El Dorado county fair grounds west of Placerville. At Placerville also the El Dorado county high school athletic field was improved and flood-lighted.

In the fields of public utilities and sanitation, flood control and irrigation a 48,000-gallon storage tank and three diversion dams were constructed; a well dug; and 22,000 feet of water mains and distribution line, storm and sanitary sewers, and retaining ways and revetments built. Further, 6,000 acres of land were made available for irrigation purposes.

"During these five and a half years the WPA has contributed much to the physical plant of El Dorado county by giving work to many needy persons who otherwise would have been idle," Lawson commented in discussing the report.

"The buildings that have been erected and modernized have helped to improve the functioning of educational and other governmental services. The achievements cited for the most part cover accomplishments of our workers prior to the beginning of our vast National Defense program. While practically all of our Northern California efforts now are being concentrated upon projects that have been certified as vital to our preparedness by the War and Navy Department, the highway facilities that have been provided have assumed new importance so far as defense is concerned."

"During the 1941-42 fiscal year, WPA activities in the county will be curtailed sharply because we must operate within the limits of the reduced emergency relief appropriations recently passed by congress and because projects certified as vital for defense are being given priority over all others," Lawson concluded.

Empire To Give 3 Passes Daily

"Telephone Tally" Is To Start On Saturday, Says Manager Kay Nayfa

What's on the program at the Empire Theater tonight and who is the star?

Three householders of Placerville and vicinity will have an opportunity daily to claim free tickets to the Empire Theater if they can answer that question when it is asked them over the telephone.

Manager Kay Nayfa, of the theater, announced Friday that the theater will award three free admissions daily in a new "telephone tally" which will start on Saturday morning.

"Each day," he explained, "we will select three numbers from the telephone directory and will telephone those numbers."

"We will select and call only three numbers daily. Whoever answers the telephone will be asked to name the feature picture showing at the Empire that day, and name one principal player in the picture. "If this is done correctly, we will award that person a pass to the theater."

PLACERVILLE KEGGLERS CLAIM TWO OF THREE FROM SONORA FIVE

Placerville bowlers won two games in their three-game match with a Sonora team Thursday night at the Pear Bowl, but lost the match on total pins.

Sonora rolled a total of 2443 as compared with 2431 for the locals, who took the first game 830 to 823, dropped the second, 755 to 810, and claimed the third, 846 to 810.

Le Bourveau, Wade, Patterson, Elbert Gray and W. Ogden represented Placerville. Wade had a 512 for the night and Ogden 603.

A three-man Placerville team spotted a three-man Ione team sixteen pins Wednesday night and dropped two of three games but won the pin total, 1485 to 1437 with the handicap included.

L. J. Anderson, Joe Beach and Lloyd Raffetto made up the Placerville trio with "Raff" turning up a 222 in his last game to total 539 for the night.

The summer trio-league rolls at the Pear Bowl tonight.

GAS TAX HITS NEW RECORD

State's Motorists Used Billion Gallons During First Half Of Year

SACRAMENTO—An all-time record was established by motorists in California during the first six months of 1941 when they consumed more than 1,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

This figure was announced today by Richard E. Collins, chairman of the State Board of Equalization. It was based on the assessments made by the board against the taxable gallonage of gasoline distributed by oil companies in California.

Actually, the gallonage for that period amounted to 1,007,531,896, against which the board assessed $30,225,956.97.

Indicative of the increase in gasoline consumption, the tax amounted to an average of more than $5,000,000 a month. In contrast, June, 1940, was the first month during the year 1940 to reach the $5,000,000 mark and was the only month during last year to reach that sum.

The income from this source for the first half of the current year was $2,835,299.52, or 10.35 per cent higher than for the same period of the previous year.

On the basis of the distribution of 176,368,300 gallons of gasoline last month, the tax amounted to $5,291,049, of $29,832.30 more than for June, 1940. The June total was below the $5,623,772.97 tax reported for May, 1941.

FIRE IN TRUCK DAMAGES GOODS ENROUTE TO PLACERVILLE

Al Berquist, driving the El Dorado Motor Transportation Company's truck on its regular run from Sacramento to Placerville Friday morning, had a real "hot cargo."

On the road between Natoma and Folsom, Berquist discovered there was a fire in the truck. Reports state he halted the truck and succeeded in getting the fire out before the vehicle was destroyed. However, the cargo was destroyed, either as a result of fire or by water damage. The load was insured.

Supposition is that a mattress which was part of the load caught fire from contact with wires leading through the truck body to clearance lights on the side and rear of the truck.

LOWRY, FINANCIAL WRITER, ILL TWO YEARS, IS SUMMONED

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Forrest Lowry, 65, retired newspaperman and financial writer, died at his home here yesterday. He retired as financial editor of the Los Angeles Examiner two years ago because of illness.

Lowry was born in San Francisco and began his newspaper career there. He was city editor for the Salt Lake City Tribune for ten years. His widow, Mrs. Bessie Nabbits Lowry, and a son, Jack, survive.

BLITZ BLOCKED BY STAND OF RUSSIANS

Germans Have Failed In More Than Week To Claim Specific Regional Gains

By UNITED PRESS

Evidence increased today that Soviet forces had slowed the fast pace of the Nazi blitzkrieg divisions in Russia at least for the moment. The Nazi high command again gave tacit confirmation of this development by again admitting "severe" fighting along the huge 1800 mile front.

The German high command's admission of "severe" fighting was the second such report in two days by the official communiqué. This appeared to bear out Russian accounts and those of minor Nazi propagandists of the terrific battles being waged by so-called "encircled" Russian forces pocketed many miles behind the Nazi spearheads pointing toward Moscow, Kiev and Leningrad.

There has been no German claim of any specific regional gains for more than a week. The last such claim was to the capture of Smolensk. Reports this week from both Russian and German sources have indicated the key city on the highway to Moscow 235 miles away still is in Soviet possession.

Nazi propagandists hinted today that the Luftwaffe may launch an all-out attack on Leningrad, Moscow and Kiev because of indications that the Russians will not surrender the cities without a street-by-street and house-by-house fight.

The German air force raided Moscow last night for the fourth successive night, but the attack apparently was small scale.

In London it was admitted by the admiralty that the 1,375-ton destroyer Fearless was lost and a merchant ship damaged in an Italian attack upon a British convoy in the central Mediterranean Wednesday.

The Royal Air Force was proceeding with its unprecedented air attack upon the continent. It followed up yesterday's daylight raids, possibly the heaviest ever undertaken by the British in daylight hours, with a big night attack upon the German naval bases of Emden and Kiel.

The British admitted the loss of 15 bombers and seven fighters in yesterday's operations but claimed that 30 Nazi fighters were destroyed.

"Girl Of Olden West" Sought

State Fair Quest Is Extended To County; Entries Are Invited

The quest for the "Girl of the Olden West" was extended to El Dorado County today in the California State Fair Contest to find the modern beauty who most nearly typifies the spirit and tradition of the pioneer west.

With entry blanks placed in the local Chamber of Commerce offices, nominations were open to single girls between the ages of 16 and 25 who have lived in one of the eleven Western States for the last five years.

Emphasizing the importance of authentic dress, officials, conducting the contest in cooperation with the Western States Promotion Council, said entrants should be judged on costume, personality and characteristics representing the womanhood of the early west. Costumes must represent the period between 1849 and 1880.

Prizes totaling $500 are being offered to the winners who will be decided at the State Fair grounds in Sacramento on "Old West Day" to be held during the ten day Exposition opening August 29 and running through September 7.

Entries must be mailed to the California State Fair prior to August 17 and contestants must appear in costume at the State Fair on "Olden West Day."

Deuteronomy 32, 3, 4: "Because I will publish the name of the Lord, ascribe ye greatness unto our God. He is the Rock, his work is perfect: for all his ways are judgment; a God of truth and without iniquity, just and right is he."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "People go into ecstasies over the sense of a corporeal Jehovah, though with scarcely a spark of love in their hearts; yet God is Love, and without Love, God, immortality cannot appear. Mortals try to believe without understanding Truth; yet God is Truth" (p. 312).

DIAMOND SPRINGS CHURCH
Sunday school, 9:45 a. m. Morning

Robin Godine, rich society girl, falls in love with Cary Craig, who is paying his way through medical school by working for an escort bureau. She fires him to go about with her. He secretly loves her but, because of her wealth, hides his feelings. Finally, deciding it is best to end things between them, he deliberately provokes a bitter quarrel. After this, however, he becomes so remorseful that he factors father Jed Proctor, a beer-seller and a man who has been a hot dog and who, years ago, was in love with Robin's mother, now dead—decides to go to see Robin and try to patch things up. Jed, Malina, owner in the beer parlor who also is in love with Cary and wants to prevent any reconciliation between him and Robin, immediately lets Jed out for Robin's home in Placerville and made him look freakish. When Robin and a crowd of her friends laugh at him, he flees without telling her the purpose of his visit.

CHAPTER XV

JED had never been so hurt. It wasn't, he reflected as he returned home, that he minded the others laughing at him. But Ruth's daughter! That she could be so unkind was unbelievable. Ruth had been so gentle and good and kind.

He hadn't known he looked funny, but that didn't matter. It wasn't his wounded pride that mattered—it was to have Ruth's daughter treat him that way!

Lyriss was sitting at the old piano, picking out a new tune with one finger, when Jed shuffled into the beer parlor. She took one look at him, and knew that her maneuvers had been successful. It was obvious that things had gone against Jed.

He sat down at a table, his head in his hands. Lyriss felt a slight stab of remorse.

"What's the matter?" she asked kindly.

"Nothing."

"See Robin Godine?"

"Yes but—"

It took urging to get Jed to tell just what had happened.

WHEN he had finished, Lyriss said curtly, "I could have told you to expect something like that. Only, you're so darned touchy about Cary, I didn't dare."

"You mean, then—"

"That Robin Godine is a snob. She's ruthless and reckless and cruel. I could have told you what to expect out of that girl. All you have to do is read the papers to know what she's like."

"I knew she was spoiled, but—"

"Spoiled isn't the word for it! She's rotten to the core. It'd be just like giving Cary a life sentence to tie him to a Jane like her."

Lyriss rose and went to a desk. She took a sheaf of newspaper clippings from a drawer, and brought them to Jed.

"Look here," she said, sitting down beside him.

She spread the clippings before Jed. They all related to Robin Godine and her coines—"Robin Godine and Friends Stop Traffic," "Earl Gunda Gay Belle's Heart Interest Fined for Stealing Truck," "Miss Godine Accompanies Milk Man on Route."

These and similar headlines outlined a series of Robin's latest escapades, and there was an article listing the numerous men to whom she had been engaged.

Jed blankly glanced through the clippings.

"Would you want Cary to marry a girl like that?" Lyriss demanded.

"You know how steady and serious he is. Just imagine what a

"Mostly hot water, I guess," Jed agreed.

"Certainly! And yet, you try to help her get him! I imagine if the truth were known, she only wants him because he has been indifferent to her. A girl like her always wants what she hasn't got—until she gets it."

"Guess you're right," Jed mumbled.

"Of course I'm right! A man like Cary needs some one real for a wife—not a selfish addle-pate like Robin Godine. He needs some one who would be completely devoted to him—who would help him along in his career. He's got an uphill climb ahead of him and he needs a wife who would be ready to make sacrifices for him—who would help him instead of hindering him."

"Sure," Jed said morosely. "But where's he going to find her? Seems like there aren't many girls like that any more."

Lyriss leaned forward. "What about me?" she said slowly.

JED stared at her in bewilderment. "Y-you?" he stammered. "But—but Cary doesn't love you."

"I know," Lyriss admitted with a sigh, "but he likes me—he likes me a lot—and he could make him love me in time if I only had a chance. I'd make him a good wife. I'd work my fingers to the bone for him."

Jed was still staring at her. "I didn't know you—you cared about Cary like that," he faltered.

"Well, I do," Lyriss said impatiently. "I'm nuts about him if you want to know it. You're just plain blind if you haven't noticed. As blind as he is! But listen Jed—"

She placed a hand on his arm—"you could help me if you only would. You've got a lot of influence with Cary. If you'd only know—say a word now and then talk me up a little."

"W-well," Jed said doubtfully, "Listen," said Lyriss, lowering her voice, "if you—"

At that moment, however, her words were cut short by the entrance of Brad Motter.

Jed, relieved by the interruption, mumbled something and left Lyriss to turn his attention to planning the day's menus with Brad.

Lyriss was irritated. Just like Brad to come in at the wrong moment! The ex-convict had turned out to be a surprisingly good cook and had been well worth the chance Jed had taken in hiring him, but he got on Lyriss' nerves. For one thing, he had developed a dislike for her about which was very trying. He was always following her about, always in the way!

She shrugged away her irritation and turned her thoughts back to Cary. If there were only some way she could make him know how she felt—some way she could make him pay more attention to her. She became absorbed in dreams and schemes. Perhaps, if she did this—or perhaps, if she did that—

Vaguely, she heard Jed and Brad talking.

"What we need," Brad was saying, "is more night business. The only way to get it is to give the customers some sort of novel entertainment—something different that would attract attention. I remember I was in a place once where they put on a mock wedding."

Mock wedding. The words cut in on Lyriss' thoughts and arrested them. Mock wedding. Her eyes suddenly gleamed. The germ of an idea slowly began to materialize in her head. But it was such a wild idea! No, it wouldn't work. No she didn't dare. But, on the other hand, Lyriss went on thinking, her mind now seething.

The Holy Spirit Inspires New Testament Letters

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 27 is Gal. 1:11, 12; 1 Thess. 2:13; II Tim. 3:14-17; II Pet. 3:14-16; Jude 3, the Golden Text being II Tim. 3:16, "Every scripture inspired of God is also profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, for instruction which is in righteousness.")

THE FIRST Bible reference in our lesson today is contained in the Apostle Paul's letter to the Galatians, written about A. D. 55. In it he asserts his earnest belief that the gospel that he preached was not written by mere man, that he did not receive it from man, nor was he taught it, but it came to him through revelation of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Remembering his history, the appearance of the Lord to him after his persecution of the Christians, the vision and the Lord's voice asking him, "Paul, why persecutest thou Me?" he would have been unbelieving indeed if he had doubted that a revelation had been given him. Imagine the faith and enthusiasm of a minister today who had such a vision vouchsafed him.

The first epistle to the Thessalonians was written previous to this, in A. D. 54, or thereabouts. In this 15th verse of the second chapter, Paul thanks God that his brethren in Thessaly also accepted the message as "in truth the word of God." This epistle is the first, as far as is known, that Paul ever wrote to the early Christian churches of his day.

Written Near End of Life

The epistles to Timothy were written by Paul near the end of his life, probably A. D. 65 or 66. These two epistles were the last Paul wrote, and were written, as John Calvin once said, "with his own blood." Not literally, of course, but in the full knowledge that he soon would be a martyr to the cause he so earnestly advocated.

In this letter he tells Timothy to continue in the things he has learned and been assured of, reminding him that from a child he had had the privilege of knowing the holy scriptures. All scripture, Paul tells him, "is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works."

In other words, whatever the need of man, he only need to apply himself to the reading of the scriptures, and he would obtain the necessary help and instruction.

The two remaining letters quoted in our lesson were also written about this same time. Peter reminds the members of various churches to whom he wrote, of the coming of the Lord, bringing "a new heavens and a new earth." He admonishes them to be diligent, without spot, blameless.

Then he reminds them of Paul's letters to them, and admits that sometimes these instructions of the beloved leader were "hard to understand," and that some were inclined to take advantage of this fact, those, for instance, who were "unlearned and unstable," to do things that were wrong, "to their own destruction."

"Ye, therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness." The final reference is to Jude 3:3, where Jude, brother of James, writes "Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints."

The faith, the pure religion of Jesus Christ and his teachings, not twisted to mean something He never meant, but His simple gospel, as taught by these brave early disciples and martyrs. That is the thing our modern ministers should teach and live, and we should keep this faith steadfastly and so live that no matter what comes to us, we shall be ready to meet it as Christians, inspired of the Holy Spirit as these letters to our early brethren of the church were inspired.

GRANGE NOTES

Pomona Meeting

A meeting of the El Dorado-Amador Pomona Grange was held Saturday, July 19, at the Three Forks Grange Hall. The lecture hour was held before the business meeting. Farm Advisor Ivan Lilley gave an interesting and instructive talk on "Diversification on the Farm." Mary Cannon favored us with two vocal numbers; the Klare children gave several musical numbers; and Chas. McLaughlin sang several songs.

The reports from the subordinate Granges revealed that committees are busy on fair booths.

After some discussion on the worthy work being done by the U.S.O., a motion was made, seconded, and carried that $10 be donated to that cause.

Dixie Springer invited Pomona to meet with Pleasant Valley next meeting. The invitation was accepted, and the date was set for Tuesday, September 2, 1941.

Carl Visman reported on the function of the Farm Debt Adjustment and on school budgets.

Lecturer Elizabeth Davis announced that at the September meeting there will be a quiz contest on the United States Constitution.

The meeting adjourned in due form after which supper was served.

DRAFT REGISTRANTS URGED TO CONSULT DOCTORS ON REMEDIABLE DEFECTS

SACRAMENTO—Brigadier General Joseph O. Donovan, state director of selective service, urges California's selective service registrants to acquaint themselves with the fundamental physical requirements of the army, and to take steps to have remediable defects corrected prior to examination by local board medical examiners.

The director said that while registrants could not be expected to learn highly technical details of physical standards, they could and should acquaint themselves with the basic requirements and, upon consultation with their own physicians or dentists, determine whether they are physically qualified according to army standards.

Emphasis was placed by General Donovan on the "patriotic service to be derived from such a procedure as well as the general improvement of health" where men who find they have physical defects take steps to have these defects remedied. He said:

"If registrants will assure themselves that they conform with general physical standards they will have taken a material step toward preparing themselves for training."

FARMERS CORNER

ed by increased consumer purchasing power; with a minimum of government interference with farming operations, and with constant vigilance to see that farm taxes and farm burdens are not increased disproportionately. There must be vigilance, too, during this period of national defense spending and soaring prices, to see that prices on materials, supplies and equipment the farmer must buy do not skyrocket out of all proportion to the increase in prices the farmer receives for his commodities.

Agriculture, if given half a chance, can pull out by its own bootstraps and regain a fair measure of prosperity and security. But it is vitally important that urban industrialists, government executives and labor leaders all recognize that agriculture is still the nation's basic industry — and that it must have fair treatment, or parity, if that term expresses it better, at the nation's council tables. That kind of parity will do more to rehabilitate the farming industry than untold billions in government subsidies.
